03 _ THE ROUTE

One lap of the island, on some of the best roads in the country.

Seven days, anticlockwise from Hobart, tracing the east coast north before turning inland and west, then home along the Central Highlands.

-  Top quality roads — smooth, well-surfaced touring routes chosen stage by stage.
-  Far less traffic — quiet roads for hours at a time, with a full support convoy alongside to keep riders safe.
-  Scenery that keeps changing — coastline, farmland, rainforest and highland lakes in a single week.
-  The freshest air in Australia — and the kind of riding you'll want to come back for.

05 _ WHY RIDERS TAKE THIS ON

It changes riders as much as it changes the kids they ride for.

“

It's the best thing our leadership team does all year — for the kids, and for us.

Matt Skidmore, General Manager, City Circle Group

Most of our riders aren't cyclists when they sign up — they're people who want to do something that matters. The coach and training program will prepare you for the ride, and the support around you will get you through.

A team's economics, made concrete.

This example is based on a team of seven riders. A team is usually made up of six to eight riders, and the figures move with the number of riders involved.

Model A — the traditional model.

- One jersey design worn by the whole team, shared across multiple brands.
- Logo position is allocated by contribution — the more you give, the more prominent your placement.
- Sponsors can secure their own rider position on the team.
- The team sponsor decides how to build the group, at whatever price points suit their network, provided the contributions total a minimum of $75,000.

EXAMPLE ONE — SEVEN SPONSORS

Total $75,000

EXAMPLE TWO — SIX SPONSORS

Total $75,000

Model B — the collective model.

- One matching colour scheme, with an individual jersey design for each sponsor.
- Each sponsor can then run their own Model A underneath, tiering further logo positions.
- Every sponsor contributes at the same level, so each brand carries equal weight across the team.
- Additional artwork and per-unit setup costs apply.

This example is based on a team of seven riders. Figures will change depending on how many riders are recruited into the team.

Model C — the single brand model.

- One brand featured across every rider's kit — full-team, single-sponsor visibility.
- The sponsor recruits their own riders, from inside or outside their company.
- The sponsor covers the full team amount of $75,000.
